Both ladies look ultra-glam in this Alexander McQueen mermaid design, but Gayle's gown appears a bit baggy on top and could benefit from some extra tailoring.

While we love how Monica's smokey makeup gives this Schiaparelli acid wash dress a glam spin, supermodel Irina's sleek updo shows off the halterneck design and silhouette best.

POST MALONE

“We beat him, put our signatures on a piece of paper and...he went straight over to that tattoo artist and got it tattooed,” Travis Kelce said of Post Malone, who had lost a game of beer pong to the Kansas City Chiefs tight end and quarterback, Patrick Mahomes, after the 2020 Super Bowl. “Man of his word, which I f---ing respect!!”

JAI COURTNEY

“I foolishly suggested that whoever came out on top of the [rugby] series was able to tattoo the other,” Jai Courtney said of why he now has the letters, QLD — representing his Suicide Squad co-star Margot Robbie’s home state of Queensland, Australia — on his wrist. “I neglected to remember that my team were at the end of a seven-year losing streak!”

After Inauguration Snafu, CARRIE RETURNS TO IDOL!

On Jan. 27, just days after her bumpy performance at President Donald Trump's inauguration — where she endured technical issues and was forced to perform a cappella — Carrie Underwood reported to work at American Idol. The "Jesus, Take the Wheel" singer, 41, who won Season 4 and is joining Season 23 as a judge alongside Lionel Richie and Luke Bryan, seemed "tense" and "serious" throughout the taping, according to The U.S. Sun, although "she did loosen up a bit by the end, so she could've been nervous." What happened at the inauguration would have thrown anyone, a source tells In Touch, "but she handled the situation like a pro. She's not looking back, just ahead — to American Idol." Carrie replaces Katy Perry on the judges panel. "I like to think that I am versatile. Hopefully, when I listen to people come and audition, I can have any lens I need to put on in terms of what music I'm thinking," Carrie recently said on The Highway's Music Row Happy Hour special. She added she will be "honest and constructive but still kind" when giving her input. "So hopefully I can marry all of those together and be a good judge."

GUESS WHO?!

This very shrewd, business-savvy reality star has the blinders on when it comes to her romance. Seems the guy is taking her for a ride. The star's family is on to him and plan to kick him to the curb. What they don't realize is he'll want a million-dollar payout before he goes anywhere.

OLIVIA IS Digging Dane

Looks like Olivia Wilde has a new man in her life! The actress, 40, had a date night with Dane DiLiegro at the Lakers game in LA on Jan. 23. According to a source, "This is the first guy she's really fallen for" since splitting from Harry Styles in 2022. "For so long, Olivia viewed Harry as the be-all, end-all. No one could come close to him," admits the source. "And then she met Dane." The former basketball pro-turned-actor, 36, checks all of Olivia's boxes. "He's smart, good-looking, sweet and considerate. More importantly, Dane seems to really like Olivia as well."

KATY & ORLANDO'S LEGAL DRAMA

Katy Perry's team has demanded her fiancé, Orlando Bloom, not be forced to testify at the upcoming trial involving the pop star and Carl Westcott. The disabled veteran is suing Katy's business manager, Bernie Gudvi, claiming that when Carl agreed to sell his Santa Barbara, Calif., mansion to Katy for $15 million, he was heavily medicated following a back surgery.

BLAKE VS. JUSTIN

Blake Lively has demanded a federal judge stop Justin Baldoni from launching a website with "all correspondence" between her and him as part of his effort to defend himself against her claims of sexual harassment, In Touch can exclusively report. Justin promised to launch the site to back up his defense. "Justin Baldoni and team have nothing to hide," his lawyer Bryan Freedman said.

Kate's New Superpower

One step closer to becoming queen! King Charles, 76, is reportedly considering letting Princess Kate, 43, bestow royal warrants, which according to the royal website are "a mark of recognition to people or companies who have regularly supplied goods or services to the Royal Household." By bestowing a royal warrant, Kate is essentially signaling she approves of a brand, and their revenue will likely skyrocket due to her influence. ("The Kate Effect" has already generated $1 billion in sales in the U.K.) The last Princess of Wales to have the power to issue royal warrants was Queen Mary 115 years ago, "so this is a pretty big deal," says a palace insider. "It shows how much the royal family values Kate."

INVESTIGATES

GABBY PETITO INSIDE HER FINAL HOURS

A podcast and upcoming docuseries reveal heartbreakingly new details about the travel vlogger's murder

She was ready for a new adventure. In July 2020, amateur travel vlogger Gabby Petito announced on Instagram that her boyfriend, Brian Laundrie, had proposed. "I said yes!" she captioned a photo from their first date in 2019, gushing, "Every day is such a dream with you."

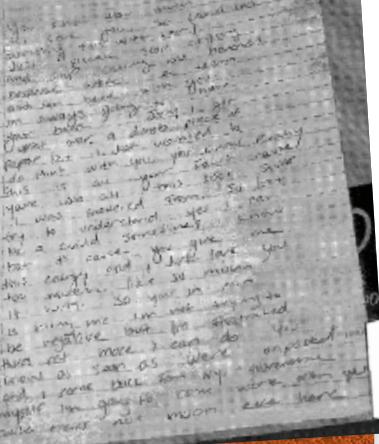

But ultimately, it turned into a nightmare. In the summer of 2021, Gabby and Brian posted photos and videos on social media as they explored the American West while camping and living out of their white van. Then Gabby, 22, disappeared — and Brian, 23, returned to his parents' Florida home alone. In the wake of reports that their relationship had turned abusive, authorities confirmed the chilling truth: Brian strangled Gabby then, later, took his own life. Looking back, there were "red flags" that the couple's romance had turned toxic, Gabby's mother, Nichole Schmidt, shared on the Jan. 28 episode of the CONNECT With Jonathan Mark podcast. Nichole said her daughter's final days and hours were filled with "anger and aggression. She would call me up crying. [She] wasn't herself."

Before the summer road trip turned deadly, Gabby hinted at strain. "Brian, you know how much I love you. So

(and I'm writing this with love) just please stop crying and stop calling me names because we're a team and I'm here with you," she wrote in an undated letter that's part of a 366-page trove of information released by the FBI last year.

Tensions grew during their journey. Police questioned the couple in Moab, Utah (see above), after a motorist called 911 to report seeing Brian "slapping" Gabby, who told cops she'd hit him first. (In a lawsuit against the Moab police department in connection with their daughter's death, the Petito family contended officers failed to properly investigate the incident,

HAUNTING PLEA

"More and more tension" was building between Gabby and Brian as they traveled in the summer of 2021, according to a police affidavit. That was evident from Gabby's letter to Brian in which she begged him to support her.

adding, "Gabby's murder might have been prevented if the officers had acted properly." A Utah judge later dismissed the case.)

FBI files reveal witnesses reported hearing and seeing Gabby crying at gas stations in Utah. On Aug. 27, 2021 — the last day she was seen alive — a witness told CNN Gabby was tearful and Brian was angry during a "commotion" at a Jackson, Wyo., restaurant. The same day, Nichole received an "odd text" from her daughter's phone that didn't sound like Gabby had written it, a search warrant revealed.

Gabby's strangled body, which a coroner confirmed showed "blunt-force injuries to the head and neck," was discovered in Wyoming's Bridger-Teton National Forest three weeks later. By then, Brian — who, along with his parents, refused to cooperate with police — had disappeared in a nature preserve near his family's North Port, Fla., home and died by suicide.

TWISTED ACCOUNT

In a notebook found near his remains a month later, Brian called his fiancée's death an "unexpected tragedy." He claimed she'd injured herself as they crossed a stream while rushing back to their car before nightfall. Freezing and facing problems with her feet and wrist plus a "small bump on her forehead that eventually got larger," she was "begging for an end to her pain." So "I ended her life," Brian admitted. "I thought it was merciful, that it is what she wanted...."

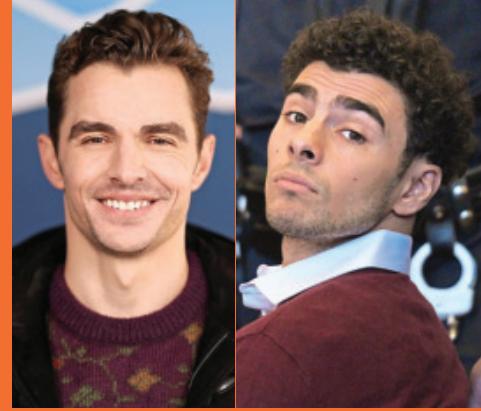

There's still more to reveal. On Feb. 17, Netflix will release American Murder: Gabby Petito, a three-part docuseries that explores more details surrounding the travel vlogger's death. "Gabby and Brian seemed like a loving couple," the show explains, "[But] the happiest people on social media usually have the darkest skeletons in their closet." ■

HOW THE FAMILY IS KEEPING GABBY'S MEMORY ALIVE

After Gabby's death, her family created The Gabby Petito Foundation, which addresses the needs of organizations that support locating missing persons and provides aid to organizations that assist survivors of domestic violence through education, awareness and prevention strategies. "I don't want to see this happen to another person. I know that we can't save everybody, but I think that this — just awareness alone is giving people the strength," Gabby's mother, Nichole Schmidt, told Good Morning America in 2021. For more information, go to: gabbiypetitofoundation.org

IN OTHER TRUE CRIME NEWS... WILL DAVE FRANCO PLAY LUIGI MANGIONE?

As soon as Luigi Mangione was arrested and charged with the murder of UnitedHealth Group CEO Brian Thompson, armchair Hollywood casting directors declared Dave Franco, 39, should play the accused killer, 26, in the sure-to-be-made movie on the crime, because they share an uncanny resemblance. When asked at the Sundance Film Festival if anyone has reached out to him and pointed out that they look alike, Dave's wife, Alison Brie, responded, "Anyone? Do you mean everyone?" Dave added, "I have never received more texts in my life about anything. Anyone who has my phone number has reached out about it." But as far as an official offer to play Luigi? "No, no official offers," Dave confirmed. Yet.

PALPABLE CHEMISTRY

"Demi wasn't looking for a guy or a romantic connection," says a source, "but clearly sparks flew between them" at the Golden Globes.

Demi & Andrew: Getting 'Cozy'

May-December romance? Andrew Garfield is seemingly smitten with Demi Moore

As Demi Moore made her way to the podium after winning the Golden Globe for her performance in The Substance, presenter Andrew Garfield guided her up to the stage by taking her hand, then he sweetly kissed it before she began her acceptance speech. The Amazing Spider-Man actor and the About Last Night actress later hugged and put their arms around each other while posing for photographers. Paris Match's TikTok account posted a video of Demi with her hands on Andrew's as they talked closely inside the Beverly Hilton hotel ballroom during a break in the telecast.

She's 62. He's 41. But their 21-year age difference hardly matters. "They definitely seemed cozy," says a source. "Now speculation is rampant that a romance is brewing between Demi and Andrew — and everyone is here for it." And while their Golden Globes moment put a spotlight on their chemistry, the source adds, "the spark started months ago."

SECRET HISTORY

Indeed, the January awards show wasn't their first encounter. In September, Demi was photographed with her arm draped over Andrew's shoulder as they chatted inside a party at the Toronto International Film Festival. More sightings of the pair have emerged since the Globes: In mid-January, a tipster told Instagram gossip account Deux Moi that Andrew was staying at the Ghost actress' home near Sun Valley, Idaho. "That sounds about right, because that's where she feels more comfortable, away from all the Hollywood chatter," says the source.

Two more sightings in the Gem State followed. One reader reported seeing them attending "a fundraising event together," Deux Moi revealed, while another Idaho resident spotted the stars "at our local ski mountain." Then on Jan. 27, Deux Moi speculated that the Tony Award-winning actor and the new Oscar-nominated actress might be meeting up in Britain as well after Andrew was spotted at a North London gym while Demi attended a Q&A and screening for The Substance at a London theater on Jan. 26. (She's also expected in the U.K. capital for the BAFTA Awards, where she's up for best actress, on Feb. 16.) "Demi doesn't just to jump into relationships anymore," says the source, noting that she married second husband Bruce Willis, 69, after just four months of dating. "She gets to know someone first."

COUGAR VIBES

Demi and Andrew have nothing to lose. "They're both single. She's more gorgeous than ever, and he's not only handsome but super charming," says the source, adding that Andrew seemed smitten — "you could see it on his face" — at the Globes. "And everyone knows Demi has an attraction to younger men," including third husband Ashton Kutcher, 47, who's 15 years her junior (see sidebar).

In her 2019 memoir, Inside Out, Demi accused Ashton of cheating on her before their 2011 split. "But Andrew is different than Ashton," says the source. "He's mature, empathetic and in touch with his feelings. He ticks all the boxes, and then some." ■

PALACE STAFF

Former butlers, cooks and valets reveal big secrets about the royal family in a bombshell new book

Over the years, a few private stories have leaked. The late Queen Elizabeth II's dresser, Angela Kelly, confessed in her memoir, The Other Side of the Coin: The Queen, the Dresser and the Wardrobe, that she broke in the monarch's shoes for her. Princess Diana's butler, Paul Burrell, dished to The Sun that when Prince Harry was once fed a smaller breakfast than his big brother, the nanny told him, "William needs more filling up [because] he's going to be king one day." And according to Omid Scobie's Endgame, King Charles' valet irons everything he wears, down to his shoelaces. The valet is also in charge of his childhood teddy bear, "who went everywhere with Pa," Harry shared in his book, Spare.

There's no doubt the palace walls have eyes. And now more intimate details about The Firm are being revealed from the people who "feed and clothe the royals, organize their days, polish their shoes, carry the deer and pheasants they shoot and even put the toothpaste on their toothbrushes," author Tom Quinn explains in his new book, Yes

Ma'am: The Secret Life of Royal Servants. (That toothpaste tidbit refers to Charles!) Tom tells In Touch that he was able to gather many of his fascinating, funny and sometimes scandalous anecdotes before some servants signed nondisclosure agreements. "The royal staff are privy to many secrets," he says. "It is astonishing how close royal servants can get to the people they work for."

BEHIND PALACE DOORS

Royal staffers have seen all the dirt — literally. William, 42, and Harry, 40, TELLS ALL!

UPSTAIRS, DOWNSTAIRS

The book, out Feb. 25, promises to reveal who's an "angel" and who is what one staffer called "a private devil."

deserve the title of "messiest royals," Tom, who's authored a number of other books on the royal family, tells In Touch. "One servant joked to me that she thought William and Harry as children believed fairies came into their room at night and tidied everything up." (This could explain why, when Princess Kate, 43, and William posted a job opening for a new housekeeper in 2020, they made sure to add: "Maintaining confidentiality and exercising discretion at all times is paramount.")

Staffers can also reveal the truth behind major scandals. Much has been made of the 18 staffers who have quit working for Meghan, 43, and Harry since their 2018 wedding. But Tom tells In Touch he heard from multiple palace staffers that "one of the things the royals found difficult about Meghan Markle was that she was a bit too relaxed for [such] a very formal family. She was constantly hugging and embracing" not only royal relatives but senior staffers, which the family struggled "to deal with." Despite all the negative press she gets, Tom adds that several people who worked for Meghan "said she was actually rather nice."

The late queen was also remembered for her kindness. Margaret "Bobo" MacDonald "looked after Elizabeth II from the time she was a baby, and Bobo was still working for Elizabeth in the 1990s," shares Tom. "In fact, almost everyone I spoke to agreed that [she was] Elizabeth's best friend. When Bobo became too frail to work, Elizabeth provided her with an apartment at Buckingham Palace and insisted that she do no work at all, but they still had tea together every day when Elizabeth was at home."

The staffers' devotion — even over generations — is what Tom found truly astonishing. "Lots of families worked for the royals for centuries," says Tom, noting that Arnold Keppel worked for William III in the late 17th century. More than 100 years later, Queen Camilla's great-grandfather, George Keppel, "worked for the Royal family, and [his] wife was the mistress of Edward VII. So it's a very incestuous world, and I found that particularly crazy." ■

On What She's Looking For in a Man: HE HAS TO MAKE ME LAUGH!

The actress is serious about finding love again – but jesters are more than welcome

LOVE OF HER LIFE

"There's no greater love than being a parent," La La says of son Kiyan.

READY FOR MR. RIGHT

"I'm just trying to be more open," says La La. "I'm really working on being more present and in the moment."

a La Anthony's dream date night would likely involve a nice dinner, some drinks and something fun, like bowling. "That's all right in my wheelhouse," says the 40-year-old. The most important thing on the agenda? Some good old-fashioned fun. "I love spontaneity, and I love to laugh," the BMF actress says. "I joke around all day long, so if you can be spontaneous and make me laugh, those are two great qualities." Here, the best-selling author, TV personality and mom to Kiyan, 17 (dad is ex Carmelo Anthony), talks to In Touch's Lindsay Hoffman about her love life, double dates with her famous pal Kim Kardashian and what she wishes she could tell her younger self.

How's your dating life?

LA: Interesting. [I'm staying] open to whatever is meant to be and believing that whatever God wants will come. I'm living life and having fun and trying to make amazing memories.

Tell us about your ideal date.

LA: A good meal somewhere with drinks is always fun. Maybe a nice walk after, or sitting at the park. Or watching something fun on TV, like a fun movie or TV series.

Are you open to double dating with Kim?

LA: Yes! Double dates are fun.

Would you set each other up?

LA: I don't know. It's not easy finding options out there. So it would be interesting for us to figure out who to bring with us. Whoever it is, it'll be fun — Kim and I always have a good time together.

Does being in the public eye make it harder?

LA: I think anybody would say that. If you talk to women across the world, they'll say it's hard to find options. And you don't just want any options — you want the right ones.

Any tips for finding Mr. Right?

LA: Don't settle. And whatever is important to you, don't sway from that. There's somebody in this big world who's going to match everything you're looking for.

You teamed up with Amgen to raise awareness about treatment options for your plaque psoriasis, which Kim also has. Do you share advice?

LA: We swap ideas about what works and what doesn't work. Like, "Hey, I tried this. It worked. You should try it." Kim would always speak so openly about it. I was like, "It's the right thing to do. You can help." By her speaking about it, I became more confident in speaking about it, too. She definitely helped [me with] that.

What else are you working on?

LA: I'm currently shooting season seven of The Chi on Showtime.

Where do you see yourself in five years?

LA: My son will be off to college. I'm having difficulties wrapping my mind around that fact. Then I'll have the house to myself. Hopefully, the next five or 10 years will be a lot of fun for me.

What's your advice to your younger self?

LA: Don't get caught up in what people say. No matter what you do, not everyone's going to like it. People are going to have something to say. So, it's about making yourself happy. If you feel good with your choices, that's all that matters. ■

ON A LIGHTER NOTE...

La La answers some burning questions!

FAVORITE MOVIE?

Lean On Me.

GUILTY PLEASURE?

Nestlé Crunch.

WHO'S MADE YOU STARSTRUCK?

I did a film with Eddie Murphy, and I was starstruck, although he would have never known it. He was the kindest, nicest person, but there were so many times on set where I whispered to myself, "It's Eddie Murphy! He's right there!"

FAVORITE VACATION DESTINATION?

The Caribbean. I was just in Puerto Rico — I'm Puerto Rican, and my family was there. The food is incredible. And there's so much history to see, walking around San Juan.

LOLITA BRINGS THE GLAM

Vibrant. Eclectic. Glamorous. Those are the words that come to mind when you walk into Lolita, a Mexican restaurant nestled in midtown Manhattan. The beautiful setting is only upstaged by the food. Our faves? The Queso Frito – melted oaxaca cheese, salsa negra, pico and cilantro, served with tortillas; the Empanadas De Camarón – gulf shrimp, tomato chipotle sofrito, avocado mousse and chipotle mayo; and the New York Strip, which is served with a divine lime-cilantro corn rice. Wash it all down with your favorite tequila, of course! (lolitanewyorkcity.com; open for brunch, as well)

SKIN SAVIOR

Freezing temps = very dry skin. Enter: Ursa Major's Alpine Rich Cream, a heavyweight moisturizer that helps replenish cracked skin. It's made with tremella mushrooms for intense, long-lasting hydration and protection from environmental stress. ($68, ursamajorvt.com)

HEAVEN SENT

Heaven's Door limited edition Bourbon bundle comes with a bottle of Exploration I, a smooth, delicious bourbon that features notes of baked apple and warm spice, and the book Bob Dylan: Mixing Up the Medicine to celebrate the genius of Bob Dylan. Perfect combo! ($175, buy.heavensdoor.com)

LUSCIOUS LIPS

Plump and volumize your lips at home with Lines Meet Lines Lip Serum. The high-shine treatment hydrates and restores volume for the perfect pout. Available in Clear, Cherry and Berry shades, use it in place of a lip balm for up to 40-percent increased lip volume! ($45, linesmeetlines.com)

HOT HOT HOT!

Superbowl Sunday is upon us! What better flavor to add to your game day spread than Tabasco Red Sauce? Whether its in a creamy buffalo chicken dip or sprinkled on a slice of pizza, each bite gives off the perfect amount of heat. (Available at nationwide retailers)

BIG MOVIE

Captain America: Brave New World

IN THEATERS, FRIDAY, FEB. 14

He officially inherited the Captain America shield from Chris Evans' Steve Rogers in Avengers: Endgame and came to terms with his new role in The Falcon and the Winter Soldier streaming series. Now, Sam Wilson (Anthony Mackie) is offered an official military position by U.S. President Thaddeus "Thunderbolt" Ross (Harrison Ford), taking over for the late William Hurt, who previously played the character in the Marvel franchise) in this film, which has been described as more of a political action thriller than a superhero flick. But the movie doesn't veer far from its comic book roots when Ross turns into the menacing Red Hulk!

ROM COM

BRIDGET JONES: MAD ABOUT THE BOY

THURSDAY, FEB. 13, PEACOCK

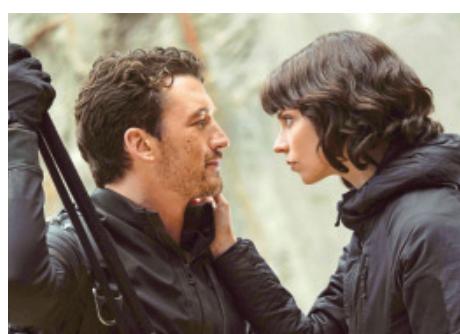

Dear Diary: Bridget is a sad singleton once again! The fourth film based on the books finds the titular character (Renée Zellweger) raising her kids while mourning the death of her beloved Mark Darcy (Colin Firth), until her pals convince her to date again. Hugh Grant is back as her scoundrel ex, while Leo Woodall and Chiwetel Ejiofor also star.

ACTION THRILLER

THE GORGE

FRIDAY, FEB. 14, APPLE TV+

Two elite snipers (Miles Teller and Anya Taylor-Joy) with very different backgrounds bond while guarding towers on opposite sides of a mysterious gorge. When an ancient evil threatens to emerge from its depths, they fight to contain it in this sci-fi thriller, which also stars Sigourney Weaver.

horoscope

the forecast for Feb. 9 - 15

AQUARIUS

JAN. 20 - FEB. 18

You will soon be given the opportunity to branch out in new directions – seize it! A friend who's going through a difficult time could use your support.

LUCKY NUMBER: 8

Emma Roberts, who will be 34
on Feb. 10, caught the acting bug as a kid hanging out on her aunt Julia Roberts' movie sets.

PISCES

FEB. 19 - MARCH 20

It's an ideal time to get your life in order. Take the steps needed to close a chapter that you know must come to an end. Worry not: Brighter days are ahead.

LUCKY NUMBER: 9

ARIES

MARCH 21 - APRIL 19

A special someone has a surprise for you as the week begins, but it may take some getting used to. Confusion reigns, and it may be difficult to separate truth from fiction – trust your gut.

LUCKY NUMBER: 5

TAURUS

APRIL 20 - MAY 20

Your health is the focus this week. Start thinking about ways you can mix up your daily routine. Your enthusiasm at work isn't going unnoticed.

LUCKY NUMBER: 12

GEMINI

MAY 21 - JUNE 21

It might be time to reassess a goal you have been working toward for a long time. Is achievement as important to you now as it was when you set out? If not, redirect your energies.

LUCKY NUMBER: 10

CANCER

JUNE 22 - JULY 22

If you feel agitated this week, don't let it show. Try to hold your tongue around friends, when your first instinct is to let all your feelings out. It's not the right time, and loose lips now will lead to regrets later.

LUCKY NUMBER: 2

LEO

JULY 23 - AUG. 22

Events midweek jolt you out of your comfort zone, but also provide a push in the right direction. Keeping an open mind – and an open heart – at the start of the week will help you cope with upcoming life changes.

LUCKY NUMBER: 4

VIRGO

AUG. 23 - SEPT. 22

You've been so focused on your own concerns that your loved ones are feeling neglected. You shouldn't give up on what's important to you, but now is a good time for balance.

LUCKY NUMBER: 7

LIBRA

SEPT. 23 - OCT. 22

A new and exciting phase is beginning. Everything seems straightforward, but tread carefully. Don't overreact when someone tries to change your plans and mind.

LUCKY NUMBER: 11

SCORPIO

OCT. 23 - NOV. 21

You've been highly sociable recently, but now you're longing for some solitude. Take time to recharge at the end of the week. Unsettling developments occur, but try not to get caught up in the drama.

LUCKY NUMBER: 1

SAGITTARIUS

NOV. 22 - DEC. 21

You avoid a domestic crisis early in the week, but make sure the problem is truly gone and not simply delayed. Asserting yourself helps things. You come across a family heirloom.

LUCKY NUMBER: 3

CAPRICORN

DEC. 22 - JAN. 19

In order to achieve your professional and personal goals, sort out your timing and have a solid strategy in place. Pay attention to detail going forward.

LUCKY NUMBER: 6
